VACCINE IN COURT FOR A LEGAL TEST.

FIVE LITTLE BELOIT GIRLS IN SUSPENSE.

Rev. J. H. Schlerf Makes an Objection Similar to That Raised in Beloit—Says Doctors Are Making Too Much Money Out of Small Pox Scars.

Judge Bennett has a vaccination case on hand with a half dozen little girls involved. Rev. J. H. Schlerf, formerly of this city, is the central figure in a similar case which is being heard in Milwaukee to-day. A year ago he applied for a writ of mandamus to compel the school board to admit his son Carl to the Fifteenth district school. Carl Schlerf was turned out of school in May, 1892, because, like little George Washington, he could not tell a lie. When asked whether he was vaccinated, he answered:

"No, I am not; and my father will not let me be vaccinated."

This truthfulness was provoking, and Carl was sent away, although Dr. Washburn says that thirty-two per cent of the children in the public schools are not vaccinated. Rev. Schlerf consulted a lawyer, and for a whole year they talked the matter over, while Carl attended Concordia college. Finally on June 24, 1893, Rev. Schlerf's affidavit for an alternative writ of mandamus was filed. Judge Johnson, on the same day, ordered that such a writ issue, commanding the school board to admit Carl Schlerf to the Fifteenth district school, or in default thereof the school board show cause on September 4, 1893, or as soon thereafter as counsel could be heard, why it had not done so.

The Plaintiff's Affidavit.

In his affidavit Rev. Schlerf alleged that his son was in good health and free from disease. In his opinion vaccination is not a preventive of small pox, that it affords no protection against the disease, and that it endangers the health and life of the person vaccinated, and has a very injurious effect upon the bodies and constitutions of children, sometimes causing acute, even fatal disease, and sometimes greatly impairing the health and physical constitution, and that in no case is it any benefit to the person vaccinated. The relator says he is opposed to vaccination and would not under any circumstances allow his children to be vaccinated for the reasons above stated.

The School Board's Reply

The school board's return to the mandamus was filed Nov. 8, 1893. It alleges that small pox is a very malignant disease and contagious, and that vaccination is a preventive and affords complete protection against it. The board denies that vaccination endangers health and life or has an injurious effect upon the bodies or constitutions of children, or that it causes any diseases of any kind whatever.

To a reporter Rev. Schlerf yesterday said:

"I don't believe in the efficacy of vaccination, and thousands of others believe the same way. My son Carl is now in his sixteenth year. The fact that he was turned out of the public schools changed his entire career. Up to 1892 he had been attending the Lutheran parochial school, and it was my intention to put him through the higher grades of the public schools."

"Do you regard vaccination as dangerous?"

"I do, indeed. The theory is to inoculate the mild cowpox and so prevent the individual from getting the small-pox, which is more virulent. Contagion is put into a healthy system to guard against an eventualty to which only certain physical systems may be subject. The virus must have a bad influence, because it is impossible to get absolutely pure lymph. Besides the doctors have never adhered to one method but have continually changed it. The practice now is to transfer the virus from a small pox patient to a cow and then use the lymph from the animal for the purposes of vaccination. In this manner children are contaminated and made sick that they may escape a possibly worse sickness."

"Is the sentiment against vaccination gaining ground?"

Says the System Is Losing Ground

"Holland and Switzerland have abandoned compulsory vaccination, and in the English parliament the motion will be made this month. Dr. Jenner, an Englishman, originated the practice of vaccination. He inoculated his first child, but not his other children, because he was convinced it was not for the best. In Europe they vaccinated sheep against a certain disease a few years ago, but they stopped it as injurious. The vaccination lymph is like Koch's lymph—a humbug."

Says Physicians and Statisticians Mislead.

"But how can a swindle be kept up so long and what about statistics?" "The physicians are making money out of it—that is the best reason. Fifty cents for each child makes an immense sum. And statistics work both ways. The falling off in small pox cases is due to improved sanitary conditions and other advances in the mode of living. Professor Virchow, the greatest pathologist in the world, is opposed to vaccination."

"Are the Milwaukee 'anti's' doing anything?"

"The society hasn't met recently, but it used to hold meetings regularly at Fraternity hall. It was organized by Dr. Zur Nedden, of Twelfth and Walnut streets, and counts between eighty and ninety members. Christian Wahl is a strong supporter of our agitation."

Testing the Law.

"At Boston 1,760 children are out of the public schools, because their parents will not let them be vaccinated. At Beloit there is a case like mine before Judge Bennett; so there is at Terre Haute. At Reading, Pa., they are trying the constitutionality of the law."

On Dec. 20 Mr. Schlerf's attorney filed a demurrer to the return of the school board, and his demurrer will be argued. It sets forth that the return does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense and does not show any cause for not obeying the writ. The return was prepared by W. J. Turner, then president of the school board.

NO MORE Y. M. C. A. CONCERTS

Last of the Series Was a Decided Success—Lawn Socials Follow

Hot weather couldn't keep Liberty hall from being crowded last night. The occasion was the regular monthly social of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian association. Mrs. H. L. McNamara, chairman of the social committee, was master of ceremonies and the programme was under the direction of Mrs. Stephen B. Lewis. The opening number was a selection by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. Mrs. S. B. Lewis sang "In the Chimney Corner," by Cowen; Miss Lou Fenton recited "The Witch's Daughter" and Miss Marie Wilcox appeared to good advantage in a ballad. Other selections were a duet "Though Everywhere," by Mrs. S. B. Lewis and Miss Wilcox, and an instrumental quartette by members of the Third Ward Mandolin club. Accompaniments to the songs were by Mrs. F. F. Lewis. This entertainment was the last of the series. During the summer months lawn socials will take the place of indoor entertainments.

LAST WHIG MEETING IN JANESVILLE.

CHARLES HOLT, W. F. TOMPKINS AND ONE OTHER MAN.

On the Court House Steps They Met, One Being Chairman, Another Secretary, and Holt Making All the Motions—Contest Between Farwell and Upham.

Not long ago the Gazette published a little paragraph in relation to the last whig convention held in Rock county, Charles Holt, then editor and proprietor of the Gazette, playing an important part. This article caught the eye of Mr. Holt at his home in Kankakee, Illinois, and prompted him to write the Gazette as follows:

"I can give you, if you want it, the finale of the last whig gathering in Rock county which you reproduce from the Gazette I am now publishing. The delegates, so unanimously appointed were selected at a city caucus in Janesville, held on the steps of the old court house. On reflection, I think there were three persons in attendance. W. F. Tompkins was chosen chairman, the third person whom I do not remember, was secretary, and I made all the motions. When we got to Madison we found considerable feeling to nominate Governor Farwell, who had beaten Don Alonzo Joan Upham, of Milwaukee, two years previously, and whom, by the way, some people believed had been 'counted out' by the state canvassers. Farwell was nominated at a state fair in Watertown as an independent candidate after the whigs had put a candidate in the field. He was distasteful to the friends and supporters of the old Rock River Valley railroad, on account of his sympathy with Madison and Milwaukee in hostile movements against the road. When the convention assembled the 'Rock delegation' squatted in the centre of the assembly hall in the old capitol. George Reed of Waukegan, took position in one end of the hall, and Amasa Cobb of Iowa, planted himself in the other end. The two ends supported the center in an active opposition to Farwell's nomination, and the united forces made such a show of strength or noise as frightened Farwell and induced him to get rid of the racket by stepping out of town to Cottage Grove, a settlement eight miles from Madison, leaving Harlow S. Orton, his private secretary, to manage the convention. We succeeded, however in obtaining or forcing the withdrawal of the name of the fugitive governor, and Harry S. Beard, of Green Bay, was nominated. Beard was beaten and the remnant of the whig party hopelessly routed. This was the end of the whig party in Wisconsin. Beard's vote was a nominal one in the state and 'Old Rock,' the citadel of whiggery, gave him only a trifling 300 votes. The Janesville Gazette and the Portage Register were the only whig papers which supported Beard. They fired the last whig guns, and went down with their old party in the general defeat, to come up again in the republican party."

Bill Truesdel, Frank Pixley and two or three others, subsequently attempted to revive the old party, and used to meet at Jim Burgess' old American hotel to consider the prospect of its resurrection. They called a county convention to nominate a county ticket, but it was like a call upon spirits in the vasty sleep, and the movement went no further than themselves.

There is a good deal of unwritten history everywhere, and perhaps this "item" may interest some of your present readers.

THEY DRANK TOO MUCH WINE

And It Cost the City Several Hundred Dollars—Kenosha's Predicament.

According to all reports champagne corks popped merrily at the banquet given to the Milwaukee city officials who visited Kenosha to present the resolutions of thanks adopted by the Milwaukee common council for the services rendered by the Kenosha fire department in the Third ward conflagration. No thought was given to expenses until after the "comers" had been bequeathed to history, but now many residents of Kenosha are objecting strenuously to the payment of the expense by the corporation which the banquet had entailed. Seven hundred and fifty dollars is the charge which the landlord of the Grant house has presented for the wine which was disposed of at the banquet, and the expenditure of this sum, the taxpayers say was extravagant. Kenosha people believe the money could have been far more profitably used in the re-paving of Main street or toward the purchase of a new town pump, and so strong are the objections that have been raised to the banquet bill that they are likely to form an issue in the next municipal campaign at Kenosha. The Kenosha Telegraph is already devoting space to the banquet and in last week's issue it characterized the entertainment as a "disorderly affair."

Tossing on the "Briny"

Is very far from amusing, untraveled reader, I so be you are one. A rebellion fomented by that mountainous wave that smites the vessel's hull threatens absolutely to dislodge your very vitals from their natural resting place, and a nausea so frightful that it would reconcile you to a termination of your sufferings by shipwreck harasses you. Well for you then, or rather before this crisis, if you are provided with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a swift remedy for and preventive of the nausea of travelers by sea or land, nervousness caused by the vibration of the screw of a steamer or the jarring of a railway train, and an antidote to bowel, liver and stomach troubles caused by impure water and unaccustomed food. The Bitters also, counteracts the effects of a fatigue and exposure, and is a safeguard against malaria, rheumatism and kidney trouble.

AMBULANCE DIDN'T RESPOND

Horses Went Out Without the Wagon and Had a Good Time

The Fire Patrol ambulance did not respond to the call from the Janesville Machine company at 4:30 o'clock last evening. "Send the ambulance to the Janesville Machine company's office quick," was the message that flew over the wires. Driver Barriage pulled the ropes to open the doors for the horses. One of the doors did not open as usual, and Barriage places much confidence in his horses. He left his post at the pole and went to the stable door. One horse sprang forward to the pole, but seeing no one there to attend him, went to the street, neighed, kicked up his heels and started on a run for Spring Brook. His mate flew past the driver and joined its companion, and then they enjoyed themselves in a rollicking run and play, all over the east side. It was an hour before the team was corralled in a North Bluff street yard.

TURTLE WORE A COPPER TAG.

Firemen and Others Leave Their Mark a Hard-Shell.

Some years ago Engineer Gzell of the Janesville Machine company caught a turtle near the company's plant, and after securely attaching a copper tag to the turtle with his name on the tag, he turned it loose in the river. Last summer, while the boys at No. 2 fire station were fishing near the station they caught the same turtle, carrying the Gzell tag. The boys removed the tag, stamped "No. 2 Engine House. Ben. B. Pat. G. 1893," on the tag, attaching it to the turtle and put it back into the river. Last evening a little boy picked the tag up on North Main street and returned it to the fire station. Evidently the turtle had become domesticated in the city.

WANTS NO ASPHALT ON CITY STREETS.

CORRESPONDENT GIVES INTERESTING POINTS ON PAVING.

He Is Not in Favor of Asphalt—Not Good for Man or Beast—Effect of the Climatic Changes—Arguments That Will Interest Property Owners and Tax Payers.

EDITOR GAZETTE—I noticed in a recent issue of your paper mention of asphalt pavement as available for our city streets.

While I do not propose to discuss the relative merits or demerits of asphalt paving with any other yet it is seemly in me, in fact a duty as a citizen and a lover of human and brute life to point out to the thoughtful, results of observations gained in different cities and continents.

Our climatic influences suggest to me the inadvisability of having asphalt, as during the summer the condensation due to cooling of the aqueous vapors in the air, make it especially unsafe for mankind and beast when driving upon such a road where at even a moderate speed, the horses cannot be sure footed. In short, the least rain makes the pavement slippery; sudden frost transforms it into a sheet of ice, necessitating sanding the road for safety, and thus adding considerably to the cost of maintenance, especially when the intersecting streets have no pavement of any kind. It cannot be very useful to the traffic of this city except for roller skaters and injudicious bicycle riders. From a hygienic point of view, one too, must not lose sight of the fact that especially animal excretion, from the very nature of the road's composition, cannot be absorbed, but the liquid is taken up by the air; the solid dries, becomes dust and the minute particles are taken up in our lungs, unless a street cleaner is constantly on hand. All these objections are in addition to the present narrow tires of wheels which cut ruts into the best of asphalt roads and form a miniature canal for stagnant water and sewage. I have seen the asphalt experiment tried in a small city and know whereof I speak.

KILLING A GRIZZLY.

A Tenderfoot's Curious Desire and How It Was Satisfied.

"The average young fellow who goes from the East to the West is filled with the notion that he'd like to meet and kill a grizzly," said Mr. Shields to a reporter. "About twenty years ago I was doing a little placer mining, near what is now Colorado Springs. It was a little one-horse mining camp then. I had struck a pretty good streak, and thought I'd stay there for some time, so I took a cow up to my cabin from the springs, and a few chickens, for the eggs and milk. One afternoon a grizzly killed the cow while I was off working my claim. I was almost clean out of ammunition, so I put off that night for the springs to lay in a supply.

"There was a young fellow just from New York by the name of Harry Curtis, that I met the day I got to the springs. He had his head full of fool ideas about grizzlies, buffaloes and the West in general, and when he heard about the bear killing my cow, nothing would do but that he must go up to the hills with me and kill that bear. So we started the next morning and got to camp about 9 o'clock at night. The cow was lying about seventy-five feet from the cabin, and there was a twenty-foot gulch between. She was half eaten, but I knew Mr. Bear would be back in about an hour, so I told Curtis he could get a crack at him pretty soon, if he liked. Up there in the mountains he wasn't so keen as he'd been in town, but he took his rifle and examined it like he was an old ranger, and then he crossed the gulch on the log I'd brought up from the timber line, and I saw him lay down behind a big rock.

"It was a bright moonlight night, clear and a bit chilly. I stayed on this side of the ditch. May be half an hour went by and then I saw a big grizzly step out of a clump of bushes just at the top of a little knoll and stand there, looking as big as a buffalo, outlined against the sky. He was sniffling cautiously-like, with his head thrown back and his nose up in the air. Presently he came down the hill, swaying from side to side, and I knew he was a whooper by the way he walked. He got to the carcass of the cow and put both his front feet upon her and stood there looking around sharp and sniffing. I reckon he smelt us. Then he gave a low growl and started to tear the cow. Next morning you could see where his nine-inch claws would start into the flesh as fine as a needle point, and he'd pull out a chunk that would weigh ten pounds.

"I began to think Curtis' nerve had gone back on him, he was so long in getting ready to shoot. Then I saw him shift to one side a little, behind the rock, and bring his gun up. The bear heard him, and stopped crunching. It was as pretty a shot as a man could want. I got a bead on him, and pulled away just as Curtis let go, too.

"Ever see a bear when he's hit? He'll grab at the spot where you strike him half a dozen times, and cavort around for about ten seconds, and then he'll come your way. Curtis rose up, and the bear saw him and made for him. Curtis turned and headed for the gulch.

"He had a repeating rifle, and he threw it away and came flying toward the cabin. He cleared the twenty-foot gulch, with lots to spare. I just beat him to the door—I only had a single-shot gun—and we banged the door shut and threw the bear down. He was as white as a sheet, and his teeth were chattering like dice in a box. He sat down on the bunk and looked at me in a dazed sort of a way. I had to laugh, though I hated to do it. I got him some whisky and tried to brace him up. It was ten minutes before he could speak a word. Two days afterward I took him back to the springs. He wasn't looking for any more grizzlies."

In Hiding Near a Swamp.

Three and a half miles west of Aldie, Loudoun county, Va., is the locally famous "black swamp," and a strange story has been current thereabouts for the better part of this century. Jesse McVeigh lived long ago in an old stone house on the edge of the swamp, and there came to him once a stranger asking shelter. The stranger was taken in and he lived there for five years. He never went beyond the pond for exercise, and he took elaborate precautions at night to guard against surprise. When he died a stranger from a neighboring village came and claimed the body, professing to recognize the dead man as an acquaintance. The stranger who claimed the body was the dead man's son, and he afterwards became chief justice of the United States supreme court. The father, a wealthy and well educated Marylander, but a man of ungovernable temper, had slain a guest at his own table by breaking his skull with a decanter. The homicide's place of hiding was hardly more than fifty miles from the scene of his crime.

SOME WELL KNOWN FACES.

The Greater New York Scheme.

If the scheme for the consolidation of New York city, Brooklyn, Long Island City, Flushing, Newtown, Jamaica and various other towns on Long Island, the whole of Staten Island and a large slice of Westchester county, including the town of West Chester and part of East Chester and Pelham, receives the favorable votes of the people, New York will have a population of nearly 3,000,000 and will be the next to the largest city in the world, London being first with a population of 5,663,000. The president of the consolidation commission is Andrew H. Green of New York, the reform comptroller who took charge of the city treasury after the downfall of the Tweed ring. Mr. Green has been preaching consolidation since 1868, and the greater New York will owe him a large debt of honor in the good time coming.

INCIDENT AND ANECDOTE.

Miss May Fuller of Tacoma, Wash., has recently succeeded in climbing Mount Ranier, a feat which no woman it is said had before attempted, and in which few men have ever succeeded. The mountain is 14,444 feet high and the upper part is well covered with glaciers.

A young composer once called on Von Bulow to get his opinion of a pianoforte concerto. Von Bulow was busy then, but that evening the young man was delighted and astonished to hear the great pianist at a musical party play his entire concerto from memory. Von Bulow perhaps never had his equal in this faculty of memorizing.

A Confederate brigadier affirms that a single expression from a private soldier convinced him late in the civil war that there were other things than the arms of the Federal government working against the South. What the soldier said to his superior was this: "Gen'l, it begins to look to me as if this was a rich man's war and a poor man's fight." That convinced the general that the Southern cracker was beginning to wonder what profit would come to him from the triumph of the rich slaveholders.

Bishop Potter has just had a curious experience. About twenty-seven years ago he preached in Trinity church, Boston, a sermon in which he used the words, "With such large discourse, looking before and after," and attributed them to Lord Bacon. Going home to luncheon with Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, Mr. Winthrop reminded him that the passage was Shakespeare's, and was to be found in "Hamlet," Act IV., Scene 4. In his recent address at the Drexel memorial service the bishop employed the same quotation and again attributed it to Lord Bacon. A few days afterward he received a letter from Mr. Winthrop, now in his 85th year, alluding to the address already mentioned, and adding: "But I write now to say that you have ascribed to Bacon the words of Shakespeare, 'with such large discourse, looking before and after.' They are in 'Hamlet,' Act IV., Scene 4."

Fined Himself.

A magistrate of a Liverpool court recently had the odd experience of trying himself for an offense against the law and inflicting on himself a heavy penalty. A number of names of persons charged with allowing their chimneys to be a fire, through neglect of cleaning, came before him and among them was his own name. He was the only magistrate present and the clerk said that he could fine himself and suggested that if he inflicted double the usual penalty justice would be met. The magistrate promptly fined himself to this extent and caused a smile in court by lecturing another offender of the same batch for his carelessness and warning him to be more careful in the future.

TOO MUCH WIND

Is being wasted by our competitors, who lead in everything (Fairy tales not excepted) as to the immense amount of business that they are doing—on paper mostly—by selling their wares less than cost. Merchandise that must be sold for less than the cost to manufacture must be exceeding poor or of such an antique date that any price is gain.

We do not have that kind of goods in our place. We are making up many suits—busy all of the time and making some profit—the reason is that our customers get honest value for their money—any who have ever dealt with us can verify the above.

IN HATS

We always were in advance on new things—selling so many keeps our stock bright and clean. If we would let the old timers accumulate we would gladly take 50 cents on the dollar for them. Our new straws are in and are charming. Some beauties at 50 cents. One price to all and everything marked in plain English figures.

Brief Bits of Local News—Henry A. Doty's Condition Is Very Critical—Paving Washed Up—An Old Woman Robbed by a Sneak Thief—Heavy Fall of Hail.

WHEN Christian Bachler, of Aron, drove into Janesville today he told his friends that a brand new boy had come to his house. That means enough to any proud father. To Mr. Bachler it meant that he could now boast of a family of sixteen children besides ten children who are dead. Mr. Bachler owns a small farm and works it with the aid of two of his boys. Most of his children are in Pennsylvania where he formerly lived. He has been married three times, is sixty years old and has grand children older than the three youngest of his twenty-six offspring.

JURY HAS A DEBATE IN THE BROWN CASE.

ARGUMENTS AND TESTIMONY ALL IN.

Because of a Shortage of Ten Hogs in the Annual Settlement, Arrests Were Made and Suit For False Imprisonment Followed—Peculiar Facts in the Case.

The case of Charles Teubert against Harry Brown, the well known shoeman, was given to the jury at half past 12 o'clock this afternoon, the case having been before the court for two days.

Teubert brought suit to recover damages for malicious prosecution and false imprisonment. He was a tenant on the Brown farm and the trouble resulted from the annual settlement.

Brown missed some hogs, ten in number, and had Teubert, Teubert's brother Julius, wife and Louis Churchill, a hired man, arrested late at night and placed in jail. The Teuberts and Churchill were arraigned for trial in the municipal court, the testimony of the plaintiff not being sufficient in the opinion of the district attorney, the case was dismissed. Teubert then sued for damages.

DUG UP MONEY FOR A LAWYER O'Rourke and Mulcairns Decide That They Can Afford to Pay

Louis O'Rourke and Patrick Mulcairns, charged with stealing a watch from the person of George Trenwith, told Judge Phelps last week that they were poor and unable to procure an attorney. The judge appointed F. M. Scanlan to defend the accused and was surprised this morning when the defendants brought in Richard O'Donnell to inform the court that they had means to procure an attorney and that they had secured the services of T. S. Nolan. Mr. Nolan could not attend to the matter before May 26, to which time the case was continued. The court issued an order for the payment of $5 to Mr. Scanlan for services so far rendered, he having taken hold of it when appointed and worked faithfully in the interest of the accused.

PERCY MERRILL WILL GET WELL The Danger Point of His Painful Illness Passed in Safety.

Percy Merrill, the little son of Mrs. H. E. Merrill, who has been dangerously ill for some days past, is now recovering rapidly and will soon be out again. He was injured, it will be remembered, by being struck in the stomach with half of a heavy paste board lap board, which was playfully thrown by another boy. He lay at the point of death for several days, but finally an abscess caused by the blow broke, and his recovery has been rapid ever since.

HEAT KNOCKED OUT MOFFAT. Prostration From the Warm Weather of Yesterday Nearly Proves Fatal.

Andrew Moffat, a painter in the employ of the Janesville Machine Company, was overcome by heat between four and five o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was taken to his home on Eastern avenue, near Armour street; and Dr. W. H. Judd attended him. During the night his condition was quite critical, but today he is much improved and will recover.

Mrs. H. H. Blanchard, Mrs. H. H. Blanchard died at 5 o'clock this morning at her home, 59 Locust street, aged forty-nine years. Her maiden name was Mary Bennett. She was twice married, her first husband being the late Ethan Thomas of this city. Mrs. Blanchard has been in poor health for nearly two years, suffering from the encroachments of consumption. Funeral services will be held at the home on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

NO JANESVILLE GOLD FOR WILSON. Theatre Company Find Three Nights All They Can Stand.

Janesville didn't shower fat golden ducats into the Wilson Theatre company's hat. It limited the contributions to punched dimes and very few of those. The company expected to stay all week but last night the prospects were too cheerless and the engagement was cancelled. Manager Wilson attributes his lack of success to the lateness of the season.

The scenery was packed up and shipped to Chicago. Members of the company will secure other situations if possible, or if they have money enough go to some summer resort and rest up for next season. The play last evening was Bartley Campbell's melodrama, "The White Slave." It was given with good effect and the scenery was particularly realistic.

Captain Norcross Gets Some Figures of Interest to Democratic Voters.

Democratic campaigners ought to interview Captain Norcross about the general drop in values. "Last spring when I started to build my electric light plant, I purchased poles and material for a portion of the line," says the captain, "and when the season closed I was sorry I did not have the whole system completed as I believed I could have saved money. I have just purchased material for the remainder of the line. Copper wire is the lowest ever known; poles are away down, and so is labor. I am now convinced that I made a mistake last year. If I had waited until now I could have saved several hundred dollars."

NEW HIGH SCHOOL THE THEME Committee of Aldermen Meet Tonight to Draft the Ordinance

The common council committee on schools will hold a meeting this evening with City Attorney McElroy, for the purpose of considering the ordinance in relation to the new high school building.

MRS. JENNIE PRESTON IS DYING Janesville Relatives Receive a Dispatch Announcing Her Critical Condition

Mrs. Jennie Preston, of Spencerport, N. Y., is dying. Mrs. Preston formerly resided in the town of Janesville, she being a daughter of James Ingie, of that town. A dispatch was received this morning by her father. "If you want to see Jennie alive, come at once."

Mrs. Preston is a niece of Charles Tall, of this city.

CROSS SPRING PLANT MAY BE MOVED.

RICHARDSONS HAVE A PROPOSITION FROM MILWAUKEE.

Building and Grounds Offered if the Concern Will Locate in One of the Cream City's Manufacturing Suburbs—More Capital Needed in the Business.

The plant of the Empire Cross Spring company, concerning which a law suit is pending, will probably not be started up again in Janesville. Negotiations are pending for removing the concern to North Milwaukee.

"There is nothing definitely settled," said J. W. Richardson to a Gazette reporter this morning. "We have been offered a commodious building and plenty of ground in North Milwaukee. I have been to Milwaukee and have looked at the property, but can't say just what move we will make. We have had a number of very flattering offers to remove our plant. Certain it is, we have got to do something with it. There seems to be some prospect of a good trade in our line of work. We now have a number of orders for our wagons from parties in the south, and I am sure if our business was pushed a little we would secure a good return even in these dull times. We want a stock company, and must have more capital to run our plant the way it should be."

BANKS MAY CLOSE EARLY

Plan of Shutting Up Early Saturday Afternoon Has Been Mentioned

There has been talk among one or two in authority in Janesville banks of closing Saturdays at 12 o'clock noon during the summer. For more than a year the banks of Chicago have carried out this arrangement, winter as well as summer, and they report that it has been in every way satisfactory to business men as well as to the banks. Milwaukee will try the experiment this year and Janesville may not be so far behind.

IT HAS A FLYAWAY LOOK.

A Lace Effect In Summer Wraps That Is Very Fetching.

The time for the consideration of wraps and coats as protective garments is past for the season, but they still form an important part of the wardrobe, being now made of the thinnest possible stuffs and worn as a finish to formal costumes. Voluminous capes of sheer net, figured lace or jetted tulle are seen in great variety and are a very pleasing addition to outdoor attire, especially for carriage wear. They are sometimes formed of horizontal bands of ribbon mounted on net or alternating with strips of insertion, or have a fitted yoke much trimmed, the lace being accordion plaited and set around the edge of it in a flounce that flares suddenly out with a flyaway effect very taking in hot weather. In all cases they are of light weight, except when loaded down with jet, which remains a favorite garniture in spite of the rivalry of black spangles, which are lighter and more brilliant, but less rich looking.

Thin tailor made cloth jackets in mode colors are the accepted thing for informal wear on cool days and for traveling. More elaborate ones are made of thin silk, satin or moire profusely trimmed. These may be worn with a moire or other silk skirt, and over a thin blouse they will not add greatly to the weight and uncomfortable warmth of the gown. They are usually tight fitting and may be in the double breasted Eton jacket style or may have a basque either long or short, provided it is flaring in the back. Wide revers decorate the front, often outlined with fine jet, and large jet buttons are used.

A few medium length winged garments are seen, but the plain dolman shape has an antiquated look now, and the wings are customarily so full as to give the fashionable cape effect. Where the short cape is not considered sufficiently dignified for an elderly woman, the fronts are often lengthened into long plain tabs that reach half way down the skirt or are arranged in full points of the same length.

The illustration shows a half length tight coat made of iron gray sicilienne. It is cut with a flaring basque, the fullness of which is increased by plaits laid at the back of the waist. Each seam of the basque is covered with jet galloon, and the middle seam of the back of the bodice is likewise covered. The gigot sleeves are trimmed with bands of jet. A flounce of wide black lace extends over the shoulders, and a flaring collar edged with jet surrounds the neck, at the back of which is placed a large bow of black moire and satin ribbon.

VERY UGLY, BUT NEW.

The Fan Skirt Is the Latest Fashion Novelty From Paris.

It is astonishing how the terms in the vocabulary of fashion change in meaning in the course of time. A few years ago, for instance, an inquiry for dimity—a fascinatingly old fashioned name it is—produced from the dealer's shelves a thick, stiff, highly glazed fabric, with a twill, when it produced anything at all, which was seldom. This material was used for furniture slips and was of most uninteresting aspect. Today the word dimity means a variety of sheer cotton dress stuffs, white and colored, often sprinkled with tiny bouquets or delicately striped and figured. Duck is another thing the signification of which has become modified. Formerly it was a plain heavy goods used for men's hot weather suits and quite destitute of any pretenses to frivolity. At present duck is not only striped and variously spotted with color, but comes in various shades of blue, red, green and lilac in solid color, besides the damask effects in plain white, which are its latest development.

In the way of novelties there are other things besides damasked duck, however. Parisian women are appearing in what they call a fan skirt. In narrow goods like silk it consists of nine breadths, the front and back edges of which are cut slightly convex. It is very ugly, but new.

There is nothing fresh in sleeves and bodices. It would indeed be difficult to think of anything in either which has not already appeared with variations, with the exception of the threatened plain tight sleeve which has not yet suggested itself practically. All the effects to be produced by ruffles, puffs and collars have been given us over and over, and we have been able to make a choice among an exceptionally large number of equally fashionable styles.

The gown illustrated is of figured dimity, the skirt being trimmed with three ribbon ruchings. The round full bodice is shirred around the shoulders to form a pointed yoke, over which falls a wide collar. The elbow sleeves consist of a large puff terminated by a double ruffle. The waist is encircled by a white satin sash.

The German book collectors give the titles of 6,000 books about Goethe.

The Imperial library at Paris has 73,000 works treating of the French revolution.

The British museum has 732 histories of England, covering every age of its growth.

The "Breeches bible" took its name from the translation of Genesis iii. 7: "And they sewed figge leaves together and made themselves breeches."

The "Vinegar bible" is so called from an error in Luke xx. "Parable of the Vineyard" appeared as "Parable of the Vinegar." It was printed by the Clarendon Press in 1717.

CURES OTHERS

M. W. SCOTT, Esq., of the U. S. Marshall's Office, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "For many years my wife has been a constant sufferer from indigestion, sick headache, nervous prostration and all other complaints that the female sex is heir to, and, after trying many remedies and doctors with but little or no relief, I persuaded her to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery'."

She was so out of heart, she returned the answer that it would be like all the rest—of no good; but on my account, she said she would try it, so I got one bottle each; and before she had used half of a bottle she felt that it was benefiting her, and she has continued to improve ever since, and now thinks it the most wonderful remedy on earth for her sex, and recommends it to all suffering females. She has not been so well in ten years.

I write this without any solicitation and with a free, good will, so that you may let all who may suffer know what it has done for her." Sold by medicine dealers everywhere.

Birney's Catarrh Powder

Not a Secret of

Rev. Father Clarke, Sec'y to the Rt. Rev. Bishop of Columbus, Ohio, writes:

Gentlemen:—I cannot say enough for your Powder. It has cured me of an aggravated attack of catarrh when nothing else could help me. Am delighted with it. All my friends to whom I administered samples are quite enthusiastic or or it. The good sisters speak most encouragingly of their use of it in the hospital under their care. I will do anything to speak a good word for the remedy to help others who are suffering.

M. E. FERGUSON, Custodian U. S. Appraiser's Store, Chicago, writes:

Gentlemen:—Being almost entirely deaf for a number of years past and getting no relief from many so-called cures which I tried, was induced by a friend to try Dr. Birney's Catarrh Powder for my deafness. Have recovered my hearing entirely, so that I can now hear a watch tick plainly, it being held 18 inches from my ear. I look upon it as a positive cure for deafness and have recommended its use to many of my friends and can say I have never heard of a case where it has failed to relieve.

PRaise THE SHAW FOR MANY MERITS.

FAMOUS PIANISTS PRAISE THE GAZETTE PRIZE.

Everybody Who Has Examined the Instrument at S. C. Burnham & Co's Says the Things Said in Its Favor Were Justified—Conditions of the Contest.

What is thought of the Shaw piano
by pianists, vocalists and teachers.
This is not hard to find out.

When The Gazette chose an instrument it picked out the best to be had.
The girl who wins this instrument may well rejoice. Here are a few statements published in St. Paul papers by those who have used the Shaw:

OSCAR L. LIENAU, tenor singer and teacher of the voice writes:
ST. PAUL, MINN., AUG. 2, 1892. GENTLEMEN:
I am extremely pleased with the Shaw Piano, which I purchased of you. I have used it for some months and consider it a superior instrument. Its clear full tone and elastic touch is a delight not only to myself, but to my many friends, its sweet singing quality being especially noticeable, and I shall be pleased to recommend it to my pupils, etc. I am, yours respectfully,
OSCAR L. LIENAU.

Frederick Leavitt, the expert piano
tuner:

ST. PAUL, MINN., MAY 1, 1892. GENTLEMEN:
As compared with other first class instruments, the Shaw piano has the charming characteristics of each—all in one. Not a break in the scale. No rattling in the action. Never harsh nor metallic in tone. Stays in tune. Such is my admiration for the piano that I would not trade, "even up" for any upright made. My own Shaw has not required any attention during the past year and is in almost perfect tune
now. Yours respectfully, FRED. LEAVITT.

Professor William Manner, organist at the Cathedral and leader of the German Mannerchor Singing society says:

ST. PAUL, MINN., MAY 6, 1892. I admire the Shaw Piano very much. Their construction is most excellent, the tone is round, rich and mellow, and altogether I consider them one of the very best pianos made today in this country. I can cheerfully recommend them. Respectfully yours,
W. MANNER.

Those who wish to learn for themselves the quality of piano offered by the Gazette are urged to visit S. C.
Burnham & Co's. store. Several patterns of the Shaw are there shown. These instruments rank in the markets of the country just as Chickering, Steinways and Knabes, the four occupying first place.
Everybody who has seen the Gazette piano is enthusiastic in its praise. It has a pure ringing tone, and its action is very fine. These qualities are what would be expected of a Shaw piano and The Gazette made no mistake in choosing that instrument.

Friends of contestants show a lively interest in the success of their favorites and votes are coming in rapidly. New subscribers

TALES THEY TELL.

Referring to the fascinations of golf a London paper tells of a Scotchman, a retired minister of the kirk, who was deploring the tendency of the game to become a ruling passion, and also to induce bad language. "In fact," he said, "I had to give it up for that reason." "Give up golf?" exclaimed his friend. "No," said his reverence, "the ministry."

One of our best writers, tells that a little niece of his had been a very naughty girl and her aunt had had to punish her severely.
When she came to say her prayers at night her little mind was full of wrath against her aunt, but yet the child did not quite like to leave her name out of her evening devotions, so she compromised matters by saying:
"Pray, God, bless father and mother," etc.; then, after a long pause, she added, "and bless Aunt Julia, too—but not much."

Ward McAllister's statement that William D. Howells was not sufficiently posted concerning "society" to write about it, recalls the remark of a clerk in a Boston bank, when the once famous colored caterer, J. B.
Smith, presented himself with a check he wished to have cashed. The clerk declined to pay out the money until
Mr. Smith had identified himself.
"What! don't you know me?" shouted the famous caterer. "I do not," said the clerk. "Well," said Mr. Smith, "I guess you never went into society much, I've catered for the whole of it."
